

Ritual For a New Lover

* Do this ritual on and in the new moon phase

1. When you feel you have healed from your past relationships and are ready to date again and ready to find a partner, write your name on a pink candle three times and place it on your altar at home. Your altar can be any space where you can safely burn a candle: the top of your bureau, a space on your bookshelf, a mantel, or a window ledge. What matters is that you consider your altar to be beautiful and attractive, just like you would want a lover to be. Keep it uncluttered and free of other items such as money or keys.

Set your pink candle on the altar and light it.

Collect some rose petals and sprinkle them in a circle around the candle.

2. Then drop additional rose petals to the east of your candle and say, "I call from the east the new lover who will be right for me. Like the wind you awaken; like a wish you now rise! Come into my life!" Feel with your physical being your earnest wish and desire to have this lover in your life.

Imagine the sensation of being loved and cared for by this person and imagine returning love and affection to them as well. Feel it deeply. Then move on to the next direction.

3. Sprinkle rose petals to the south of your candle and say, "From the south I conjure the new lover who will be right for me. Enter life with fire and love, enter my life with joy and dance!"

Pause and imagine your request being fulfilled. Feel it deeply.

4. Sprinkle to the west and say, "From the west, Aphrodite's corner, I conjure the new lover who will be right for me. You are carried to me by the tides of the sea. Enter my life. I have opened the door!"

Pause and imagine you have opened the door to your life and space for them to be in your life. Feel it deeply.

5. To the north sprinkle the rose petals saying, "From the north I call you, the new lover, who will be right for me. From the earth you rise; you come to me quickly; you come to me wise. I have opened the door to my heart, and now I call you forth. Materialize, oh my lover."

Imagine your heart opening to allow them to come to you in a deep, intimate way; a way which you would share only with someone you truly love. Allow yourself to feel it fully.

It takes an entire moon cycle before a spell can be accomplished. After a moon cycle has passed, you will begin to get results.

You will meet new people; ask them out. And when you are asked out you must say yes. The casting of a spell or ritual is a call to the universe to send you candidates for affection and you must be polite and considerate enough to screen all the applicants.

* The original ritual came from a book of rituals for women. You may adapt the language of the ritual to fit your personality and style. The pink and/or rose colors are the colors of love and are significant elements in the ritual; they are important to attracting love and romance.

Remember to attract what you want in a partner and lover.

Additional note: I personally know of a person who used this ritual and in 30 days she met the man that she married, so I know for a fact that it works! Best wishes.
